HORSES KILLED MAN HURT BY CAR

James Bradbury Was Taking Horses From Philadelphia to a Bucks County Farm—Was on York Road Trolley Track Below Jenkintown When Hit by Car—His Head Was Cracked and He Was Taken to Hospital—Two Horses Met Death.

James Bradbury was badly hurt early Wednesday morning and two horses were killed, when a northbound Willow Grove car on York road struck them below Wyncote road, in Abington township. The man was taken to the Jewish hospital with a cracked skull.

James Bradbury, an employe of John Yost, a farmer of near Jamison, Bucks county, was returning from the city with the horses, leading one and riding the other.

Because of the icy road the man was riding between the car tracks, where the ice was broken and did not hear the car approach as his ears were covered because of the cold. There is a sharp decline at the point where the accident occurred and the cars reach a speed of about fifteen miles an hour.

In the darkness, the motorman saw nothing ahead of him until he was almost upon the man and the animals. He applied the brakes, but too late to bring the car to a stop.

Bradbury and one horse were jammed beneath the front part of the car. The few passengers on board were jolted. The one horse was killed instantly and the other was so badly hurt that it was shot by Jensen, chief of the Jenkintown police. It was necessary to jack up the car before the man and horse could be pulled from the tracks.

Bradbury was taken, unconscious, to the Jewish hospital.

The horses had been newly purchased at a Philadelphia bazaar and were being taken to the Yost farm.

PRESBYTERY MEETING.

The Presbytery of Philadelphia North held a stated meeting in the Market Square church of Germantown, Tuesday afternoon and was opened with prayer by the moderator, Rev. Dr. Lee.

The most important matter of business was the resignation of the Rev. J. B. Krewson, pastor of the Forest Grove Presbyterian church. Laudatory resolutions were granted.

The supply of the pulpit of the Forest Grove church was left in the hands of the Moderator of the session and the committee on vacancy and supply. After the Presbytery had taken action on the resignation of Rev. Mr. Krewson the Rev. Dr. Laird led the Presbytery in prayer and Rev. Mr. Krewson was also presented with a substantial purse from members of the Presbytery.

The Presbytery granted the request of the Rev. William H. Pheely to labor without the bounds of the Presbytery.

APPEAL TO HIGH COURT.

A writ of certiorari has been filed for the prothonotary of the supreme court, by Attorney George Vaux, of Philadelphia, in behalf of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia.

The appeal is taken from a decision of Judge Solly, in the estate of Martha Shoemaker, late of Cheltenham. The local court invalidated a bequest to the Philadelphia institution on the ground that one of the witnesses to the will was a trustee of the academy—the same principle upon which the Agnes Stinson will was invalidated.

WIRE THIEF CAUGHT.

An important arrest was made by Policeman Harry Peterman, last Friday night at the Flourtown trolley station when he captured an alleged wire thief. The man arrested was an Italian and was employed at Perkasie by the Lehigh Valley Transit Company from whom it is charged, the wire was stolen. When taken into custody by Officer Peterman the man had 80 pounds of expensive wire packed in a suit case. On Saturday morning the prisoner was given a hearing before Magistrate Comly and was turned over to the Bucks county authorities. The man stated that he was assisted in stealing the wire by a fellow workman whose name he gave to the officers and who, it is expected, will also be arrested.

PORK PRODUCTS DROP.

A wagon, owned by John Felin, of Philadelphia, upset on the York road at Milestown, on Tuesday, and sprinkled hams, sausage and scrapple over the highway, for a distance of 50 feet. The icy condition of the road was responsible for the accident.

$6 000 FOR A BULL CALF

Wisconsin Man Pays Record Price for Dolly Dimple Offspring.

Six thousand dollars was the price paid by W. H. Pichenor, of Oconomowac, Wis., for the bull calf of Dolly Dimple, the prize cow of the F. Lathrop Ames collection at Langwater farms. The cow, whose phenomenal work has placed her at the head of all Guernseys in milk production, and which has won innumerable prizes in many classes, was recently shown at Chicago and Wisconsin fairs, and it was through her appearance at these exhibitions that the sale was effected.

The calf was born four weeks ago and will be shipped West when it reaches the age of six months. The price is the highest on record for a calf in this vicinity.

He had been placed with a family by the name of Robinson, on Cheltenham road, and as he had never been away from his mother, packed his belongings and started to walk to his home in Philadelphia. It was reported that he was one of three children, who were left with their mother without proper food or clothing, and he was being looked after until a suitable home could be found for the child. He preferred his humble home with his mama to comfort than ice cream without her. The police made him comfortable until he could be cared for.

HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE.

On Friday night for the first time since Langhorne received the generous and most useful gift of the town clock from Howard and Hannah Reifsnyder has the clock had occasion to have its fire alarm rung to arouse the fire company to give of their assistance in fighting for the protection of a home against the ravages of fire. The call came from the farm house of Thomas Devlin, occupied by Mr. Riez and had it not been for immediate response the entire house would have been destroyed owing to the extreme high wind. The fire originated about the chimney of the first floor and was making great headway between the weatherboards of the house and had burned through to the cellar.

WATER COMPANY UPHELD BY COURT

Judges Decide Interrogatories Filed Against Springfield Company Need Not be Answered—Considered Test Case.

Judges Swartz and Weand have decided that the various interrogatories filed by the plaintiffs in the bills in equity against the Springfield Consolidated Water Company, are not proper inquiries at this time, at least not through interrogatories.

The interrogatories sought information as to the relations which a unit company of any group bears to the others in expenditures, charges, holdings, receipts, cost of maintenance and improvements charged against it.

The opinion is given in the case of David H. Ross, J. Ellwood Lee and others and also all other residents and users of water in the borough of Conshohocken furnished by or through the Springfield Consolidated Water Company who may hereafter become parties to the bill against the Springfield Conshohocken Gas and Water and the American Pipe and Construction Companies.

Two other bills in equity were also filed by persons living in Lower Merion township, this county, and Springfield township, who were supplied by the defendant companies with water.

The case was brought before the Montgomery county courts as a test because all the points in controversy were included in the bills filed in this county, while in Chester and Delaware counties the bills were not comprehensive. The purpose was to determine whether the water rates established and demanded from the users of water served by the defendant corporation were reasonable.

In each bill the complainants allleged that it was essential that discovery be had against the defendants and that specific interrogatories be directed to the companies to obtain the information necessary to a determination of the reasonableness of the rates demanded.

In accordance with this notice, sixty-four interrogatories were propounded and filed under each bill. A rule to answer was served on the defendant, and to these rules the companies replied that "they respectfully decline to answer said interrogatories," and gave five reasons in support of their refusal. The plaintiffs took exceptions to the reasons offered, and asked that they be overruled and the defendants be directed to answer them.

The defendant company, early in 1910, gave notice to the consumers of water that after a certain date no more water would be supplied except at a new schedule of rates greatly in excess of that hitherto prevailing.

The questions which the Court determined are:

1. Is the method of procedure, to-wit, bill in equity, a proper one for the plaintiffs to obtain the desired relief, if their allegations are well founded?

2. Are the defendant companies compelled to furnish the information sought by the interrogatories accompanying the plaintiffs bills?

To the first question the Court, after citing various authorities, concludes: "We therefore hold that the bills in equity were properly filed."

As to the second question the Court says: "If we are correct, then it follows that the complainants have the right to invoke the rules of practice in equity."

ELECTION CONTEST HORSHAM SUPERVISOR

The Failure to Name Specific Term on Ballot the Point—Teas vs Potts.

The Horsham election contest which was to have been argued last Thursday in Norristown was postponed until this Thursday.

The case is one under the contested election law. The petition sets forth that at the last election in the township there were two vacancies to be filled in the office of road supervisor—one for the full term of four years and one for the unexpired term of Jones Acuff for two years. Dr. D. N. Downs, the Republican candidate for the four-year term, received 112 votes. William Teas, the Republican nominee for the two-year term, received 102 votes. Elmer E. Potts, the Democratic nominee, but whose term was not specified on the ballot, received 109 votes, George W. Stong, also Democratic nominee, whose term was likewise not specified on the ballot, received 102 votes.

The election officers counted the ballots and certified to the clerk of the courts that no term of the Democratic nominees was specified on the ballot. The election officers issued the certificates of election to Dr. Downs and Elmer E. Potts.

The defendants in filing their answer admit the facts as set forth, but claim that at the Democratic caucus in September that a motion was made nominating Potts for the two-year term and Stong for the four-year term and that the electors of the township knew that Potts was a candidate for the two-year term and Stong for four years.

The matter will be fought along the lines that the term must be specified where two or more candidates are specified for the same office.

FOX CHASE INN CONVEYED.

The Fox Chase Inn, at Pine road and Oxford road, Fox Chase, lot 134 feet 6 inches by irregular, has been conveyed by George H. Arnold to Joseph H. Young for a nominal consideration. The purchaser has given to Reuben P. Douglass a mortgage of $20,000 on the property.

William J. Devine has sold for Charles H. Stringer five acres of land on Highland avenue, Ambler Highlands, to Miss Violet Denny and sister, of Poweiton avenue, West Philadelphia, for $1500. The Misses Denny will shortly commence the erection of a summer home on the property.

A Long Lived Countess.

Jeanne Fitzgerald, countess of Desmond, passed away when she was 145. At the age of 140 she traveled from her home in Ireland to London to urge some claim against the government. Sir Walter Raleigh once said, "I myself knew her." Lord Bacon mentions that she had thrice renewed her teeth.

African Rivers.

All the rivers of Africa have remarkable peculiarities. They seek the ocean that is farthest away from their source. Their course is always broken by falls, and their mouths are stopped by numerous sand banks.

Grindstones.

If a grindstone be left exposed to the sun the side kept uppermost by the weight of the handle will harden and the wheel will be ground out of a true circle.

Grandsons Well Provided for by Old Upper Dublin Farmer—Wants Them to be Suitably Educated.

The will of William C. Potts, a wealthy farmer of Upper Dublin, has been admitted to probate at Norristown. Its provisions indicate that he had the welfare of his descendants in mind when he drew his will, of which the Montgomery Trust Company, of Norristown, is made executor.

These bequests are made in the will $500 to Montgomery Trust Company to pay the interest to the Preparative Meeting of Friends of Upper Dublin for grave care; $2000 to the Montgomery Trust Company for the benefit of "our servant, Susan Walker;" to nephews, Frank Potts and William G. Potts, each $100; to nephew, Elmer E. Potts, $500; to nieces, Laura Gordon and Emma Potts, each $100; to grandson, Victor Nash Potts, 20 acres in Upper Dublin, valued at $10,000; to the widow of his son, T. Elwood Potts, the right to use the property given to his grandson, William, as long as she desires to live there; to his grandson, William Newberry Potts, farm of 85 acres in Upper Dublin, valued at $12,750; to his grandson, Earl Thomas Potts, 65-acre farm in Moreland, valued at $11,000. Henry C. Biddle, of Ambler, and Deacon Taylor, of Philadelphia, are appointed overseers of these farms, to collect the rent during the minority of the grandsons and pay the net proceeds to the Montgomery Trust Company. Neither of these farms are to be sold before each boy reaches the age of 21 years. The rest of the estate is bequeathed to the Montgomery Trust Company for the following uses:

"To divide the same into such parts as with the valuations of the farm herein before contained, shall make three equal shares or parts and to hold one of said shares in trust for each of my grandsons, apportioning them, however, to produce with the said farm equality between them and to take in receipt the interest therefrom and subject to the provisions hereinafter contained to accumulate the income of said funds respectively together with the rentals recovered from the respective farms until my said grandsons respectively shall attain the age of twenty-one years, and upon each of my said grandsons attaining such age to pay over unto him the principal together with all accumulations. When my said grandsons shall have attained the age of eighteen years respectively, such grandsons shall have the privilege of electing his future occupation in life and my said trustee is hereby directed to pay out of the accumulated income of his share such sums as may be found necessary to procure for him such education as may be necessary to properly qualify him for his work. Should either of my grandsons die before attaining his majority, and the property and estate hereinbefore bequeathed or devised to him, save and except that which may have previously been expended in his education as above authorized, shall be equally divided and become part of the shares of his surviving brothers under the same restrictions and provisions as are hereinbefore contained respecting their original shares."

The will was executed on November 15, 1911, with Mary E. Fulmer and Louis M. Childs witnesses.

After being without a choir for some time, and missing their Christmas music, the Doylestown Presbyterian church has selected a quartet, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gerlitzki, Mrs. Louisa B. Kiser and George W. Kerr, who will lead the music for the first time Sunday morning.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

Seabrook, N. H.

The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle does not benefit, your druggist will return your money.

ADVENTURES of the WORLD'S GREAT DETECTIVES

By George Barton

The Clue of the Bamboo Canes

An Episode in the Life of General Trepoff, Chief of Police of St. Petersburg.

COPYRIGHT 1911 BY W. G. CHAPMAN.

THE winter palace at St. Petersburg is one of the largest buildings in the world. There was a time, it is averred, when the wonderful structure housed several thousand persons. Noblemen, attendants, servants and employes of all kinds came and went in swarms. The discipline was lax. Scores of soldiers, detectives, policemen and secret service officials were employed to guard the person of the czar, but their very numbers helped to make them a menace rather than a protection.

In October, 1879, a carpenter, carrying his box of tools on his shoulder, appeared at one of the basement doors of the palace and said that he had been sent to assist in making some repairs to the drying rooms of the czar's winter residence. He was admitted without question and within an hour was at work with other mechanics in the lower part of the great building.

The foreman of that section came lounging along. He noticed a new face among the men. He stopped and said:

"What is your name?"

"Sergay Batyschkoff."

"Who sent you here?"

"My employer—" giving the name of a well-known cabinet maker.

The foreman shrugged his shoulders impatiently.

"That is irregular. I am tired of having men put on me in this way."

The new carpenter held out his hands pleadingly.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I need the work badly—please overlook the irregularity this time."

"Very well," was the gruff response, "but this will be the last."

So his name was entered with the other mechanics, and that act had far-reaching consequences.

On the 5th of February, 1880, the czar had arranged a splendid dinner in honor of the Prince of Bulgaria. It was a state affair and all of the details were planned on a scale of grandeur commensurate with the greatness of the Russian empire. Five minutes before the royal guests had assembled in the state dining room there was a dynamite explosion in the imperial palace. The mine had been set in the basement and the explosion pierced the two stone floors and made a gap ten feet long and six feet wide in the dining hall in which the table had already been laid for the dinner. The explosion killed five men of the police guard and injured thirty-five others.

The greatest consternation prevailed. The czar, of course, realized that the Nihilists had been at work, but he was terrified to think that they had gained entrance into the palace and that the explosion which had just taken place was intended to encompass his death as well as that of the members of the royal family.

The conspiracy in this case seemed to be widespread and far-reaching. Almost on the eve of the explosion in the winter palace a woman visited General Trepoff, the chief of the St. Petersburg police. She said her name was Vera Zassulic, and that she had called for the purpose of demanding satisfaction of General Trepoff for his tyranny in ordering a political prisoner, named Bogollibuss, to be flogged for a slight breach of prison discipline. It seems that for years she had been nursing a grievance against the chief of police. She believed that she was to be the instrument by which Trepoff was to be removed from his position. Her life, it is asserted, was an apprenticeship for one thing—the killing of the czar's chief of police. At the age of seventeen she had been arrested and kept in prison for two years because she had received letters from a revolutionist. After that she passed an examination as a school teacher and was working at book binding. At the end of 1875 she returned to St. Petersburg. Her experience had prepared her for the deed. On the morning in question she presented him with a paper, and while he was reading it fired her revolver and then escaped.

It was soon after this that the czar called upon Trepoff, promoted him to the position of counsellor of state and then charged him with the commission of capturing and punishing the man or men who were guilty of the outrage in the winter palace.

Trepoff was a man of remarkable capacity. He was burly in form but singularly nimble in thought. He had the cunning of the fox with the patience and persistence of a well-trained hunting dog. A number of men were arrested on suspicion. That was necessary. It seems to be the practice of the police in all countries to arrest somebody at some time in connection with every crime that is committed. Afterwards, if the person can prove his innocence, all is well, but in the meantime there is a feeling that the police have been alert and have done everything in their power to capture the criminal. But in this instance those who were acquainted with the redoubtable Trepoff knew that he was not satisfied. A dozen or more men, who were placed in confinement immediately after the explosion, might or might not be guilty, but Trepoff knew in his own mind that he had not captured any of the principals.

The months lengthened into a year, and still he had not run across the person who was guilty of this great outrage. But the case was never out of his mind day or night, and scarcely a week passed by that he did not invent some new scheme for bringing the guilty man to justice. From time to time persons were arrested for minor political offences, and in these instances he closely scrutinized the evidence in order to form some connecting link with the affair of the explosion at the winter palace.

One morning one of the secret agents informed him that a number of men had been seen in the vicinity of the winter palace carrying bamboo canes. That, in itself, did not seem like a very extraordinary proceeding, but the fact that a number of persons carried the same sort of walking stick made it sufficiently interesting to be worthy of report to the chief of police. The response of Trepoff to this bit of news was characteristic:

"Arrest every man of them and bring them before me."

His instructions were carried out to the letter. Some fourteen men were rounded up and brought to the central police headquarters for examination. They were examined, but nothing of any importance was found on their persons. Then the canes were taken and carefully scrutinized. This search brought rich results. Every one of the sticks proved to be hollow and each one contained a sheet of tissue paper on which was printed a call for a meeting of revolutionists. It was the biggest haul that Trepoff had made in many months. The evidence proved that the men were enemies of the government. It did more than that—it paved the way to another discovery which bore directly on the mysterious explosion of February 5, 1880. One of the prisoners, being put to torture, revealed the names of several of his associates.

One of these was a certain Victor Chalturin. He was the son of a peasant, a very energetic agitator and an experienced organizer of associations of malcontents. The police visited his rooms and made a thorough search of the premises. A number of books and pamphlets found on the shelves and in closets indicated that he was a man with Nihilistic tendencies. That, in itself, while interesting, was not very important. The searchers continued at work and finally came to a cabinet with locked doors. It was broken open and in a secret drawer they found a blue print of the plans of the winter palace. It was worn and frayed at the edges as though it had been carried in someone's pocket for a long while. Most significant of all, the lines indicating the great dining hall were marked with a cross. These facts were promptly communicated to Trepoff, and he sent out a description of Chalturin to every police official in the Russian empire.

While awaiting reports from his subordinates the energetic chief of police made another discovery. It was a slip of paper which was found in the basement of the imperial palace. On it was written these words:

"Do not delay any longer. Now is the time to act."

Some bits of paper corresponding with the material on which this was inscribed, were found in Chalturin's room. The case against him appeared to be complete. It was in March, 1882,—over two years after the explosion occurred—that the chief culprit was taken into custody. He was given a speedy trial and on the 22d of March of that year was executed, and it was then, and then only, that he was recognized as the man who had introduced himself as a carpenter in the winter palace.

The testimony which was brought out at the trial of Chalturin gave the authorities some idea of the marvelous ingenuity and wonderful perseverance of the Nihilists. Just prior to the explosion in the winter palace they had organized their forces under the title of "The Will of the People" and at once began to issue proclamations and pamphlets in order to swell their numbers and strengthen their cause. In January, 1880, their secret printing presses were discovered and seized by the police, and numerous arrests were made. In spite of this, they managed to issue, on the 26th of January, a program in which they declared that unless the government granted constitutional rights the czar must die. The result of this was fresh arrests, banishments to Siberia for some and death on the scaffold for others.

It was at this stage of the game that the Nihilists planned their most daring program. It was to blow up the emperor in his own palace. Its execution, as has already been stated, was undertaken by Chalturin, who was young and fervent and filled with an exaggerated sense of his own wrongs and the wrongs of the people. He was a clever cabinet maker and this enabled him, under the assumed name of Batyschkoff, to obtain a situation as a carpenter in the imperial palace. He ascertained that the emperor's dining room was above the cellar in which the carpenters were at work, although between it and the cellar there was a guard room used by the sentinels of the palace. Chalturin lived in the palace for nearly four months, and every night he used a package of dynamite for his pillow. A gendarme had been installed in the carpenter's cellar shortly after he began to work there, and this made the introduction of the dynamite exceedingly difficult, and incidentally had delayed the execution of the plot for many months.

It became generally known during the investigation in this case that the winter palace for years had been the refuge for vagabond workmen, friends of the servants, and others. Many of these were without a passport and could not have lived anywhere else with impunity. It seems that there is an old law which gives the right of sanctuary, so far as the police are concerned, to criminals taking refuge in the imperial palace. Naturally, the greatest disorder prevailed there. Discipline was at a low ebb, and the introduction was, after all, not such a difficult matter.

In spite of this laxity the authorities were puzzled to know how the dynamite came to be smuggled into the basement of the palace under the very nose of the police. One of the numerous prisoners who were arrested for the crime laughed airily when questioned about this phase of the conspiracy.

"It was easy," he said, "as easy as breathing."

"Did Chalturin carry it with him?"

"Not at all. That might have been fatal to our plans. At least a dozen men assisted in the delivery of the dynamite, and had any one of them been arrested the other eleven would have remained to have carried out the program."

"But what sort of men were they?"

"Just every-day, ordinary kind of men. The sort that would not be noticed in a crowd. For instance, the fact that a baker handed a couple of rolls to Chalturin would excite no comment, and yet those innocent bits of bread might have contained one-tenth of all the dynamite smuggled into the palace. Some of it was hidden in carpenter's tools, some in the lining of workingmen's caps. But why go further? The men who plan great things must possess great ingenuity as well as great courage."

But to get back to the narrative.

Chalturin said that while he was in the basement of the palace he suffered frightfully from headaches, which were caused by the poisonous exhalations of the nitroglycerine on which he rested every night. When the first of February arrived, fifty kilogrammes of dynamite had been introduced, and the counterfeit carpenter was now in a position to go ahead with his deadly work.

He hesitated at the last moment, but it was too late to retreat. He felt that in any event his own life was imperiled. If he accomplished the dastardly plot, he would be executed by the government; if he refused to do so, he was likely to be assassinated by his associates. While he was still in a state of uncertainty, he received a letter from the executive committee telling him to delay no longer, but to fire the dynamite.

In the excitement that ensued, Chalturin escaped and left St. Petersburg, but in the end, as already related, he was caught in the vast net spread by Trepoff and suffered death as the penalty of his great crime.

Why Not?

"Munyon says that death before the age of 100 years is reached is suicide."

"That's good news. I guess I'll live to be a hundred."

"You guess you will?"

"Sure. My relatives won't care; I ain't got any money."—Houston Post.

CONTRASTS IN THE HOME

Reading of the Homes of Antiquity Should Make Us Complaisant Our Own Homes.

(Copyrighted by J. S. Kirtley.)

"Hello, Central, give me heaven!" That is what the young man said when he installed the new telephone in the study and wanted to test it. At once they connected him with his home and he found the instrument working to his intense satisfaction. And he had been married several years, at that.

The general level of the American home is pretty high, if we may judge by the external signs of comfort—the average quality of the houses, foods that come from all over the world, good clothes, schools for children, with text books furnished free, in many places, large and attractive parks for recreation, or, better still, open country, and luxuries like the telephone in almost all homes, whether in city or country. And, if we judge by the sentiments of orators and writers, especially the apostrophes of the poets, we may be led to imagine that Eden is blooming and even booming here in our country, the lost Paradise regained.

We certainly have a right to be somewhat complaisant over our homes when we read about the homes of antiquity. When Mrs. Wiggs was asked if she did not feel her privations, she gave a good long list of her blessings and asked in reply, "Ain't you proud you ain't got a hare lip?" We may be proud we are not a part of an old Roman home, for instance. To use a Hibernicism, it would not be a home at all. The Latins had a word for family and one for house, but none for that something which a family in a house constitutes, which we call home. The family, with or without children, plus the house form something called home, a thing more easily spoken of than described. Well, the Romans had no word for that, because they had no need for such a word. And whenever we catch anyone trying to reestablish such a domestic anachronism and monstrosity in our land and time, it is taken in hand either by the white caps or the blue coats, or the petticoats, themselves.

It takes at least two persons to make a home, and in the Roman house there was only one, the man. The woman was not a person, in her own right, under the law. She could not intervene in the government of the family. If one of the children wanted to get married, her consent was not necessary. If her husband wanted to put her to death or leave her for a handsomer woman, he had a right to do so, without legal process or prejudice. Seneca speaks of his friend, Macaenas, as having been married a thousand times. He was certainly living up to his privileges. And Cicero, the ideal orator, repudiated his wife Terentia, in order to escape from his creditors, by using the money he would get with his new wife, Publia, and he afterward repudiated Publia. After awhile they improved the laws a little, by having what they called free marriages, somewhat like the trial marriages we have heard about.

It could not be a real home when the children had no rights which the father and mother were bound to respect. A defective or girl baby was usually exposed or abandoned or killed. Sometimes, when the father was away, the mother would be too tender-hearted to kill the child and would abandon it. The abandoned children were usually left at Velabrum, near the city, and those who were childless would sometimes watch for the castaways, pick out one and adopt it. The rest of them went to the witches or the slave dealers or wild beast or birds of prey. That same wise and noble Seneca said it was not anger but reason to thus separate the useless from the sound. If we were hunting for a home in Greece we would not fare any better, even where esthetic and intellectual culture was the very highest. There was purity among the women of the early Germans till the Romans took them over, but even there the wives were bought and could be sold and beaten at pleasure.

There is space left to speak of two facts about the American home. One is that it is safeguarded by just and generous laws. The reason for this is that the people themselves hold in their deepest consciousness and convictions the sentiments that are essential in the home; and the legislatures and courts have given them what they were taught by the home to give. Every child is guaranteed protection against brutal treatment; so is every woman; so is every man, if he should need such protection. The state reserves the right to take away any member of the family thus mistreated.

Another fact is that the American home has been the most powerful institution in generating tides of patriotism and education and in conserving the treasures of religion. It has felt the need of schools, and, under urgent home sentiments, the leaders have gone forth to found and fashion educational agencies to assist the home in its nurture of the young. The home, rather than the state, has been the nursery of patriotism, as mothers have taught and fathers have showed their children how to live for the land they love. And religion's mightiest work has been done in aiding the home in its sacred tasks.

And two very hopeful signs encourage us. One is that the psychologist has invaded the home. He is studying the institution as a whole and in detail, especially mothers and boys. The great international home congress, just held in Brussels, helped. The children's exhibit on home conditions, now being prepared by some men and women in New York, will help some. The other sign is that movements are starting in the home for self-inspection and self-rectification. It has got as far as the mother and we have mothers' clubs. Next we must have fathers' clubs for the study of the whole situation. We have boys' and girls' clubs, but no sons' and daughters' clubs as yet. These will come next.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

"A Country Woman" Writes Entertainingly of Topics in Which Every Woman is Interested.

My Dear Spirit Readers: —

This cold weather has caused much trouble with drain pipes, and I offer a few suggestions as to keeping pipes in order. Great care should be used with these modern conveniences, no linty water should be thrown down unless passed through a fine sieve, as nothing clogs the pipes so easily. Tea leaves, coffee grounds, pieces of greasy foods and all such fragments serve to stop up the pipes and swell the plumbers bills. Frequently the sink pipes should be flushed with a solution of boiling water and lye, or sal soda, which will cut the grease and pass it out into the drain or sewer.

Chickens feel this change in climate most seriously, and should now be fed with warm foods. Eggs are correspondingly scarce. Below are some egg-less recipes.

A good chocolate pudding is made by adding three tablespoons of cornstarch and five tablespoons of sugar to a quart of scalded milk into which three squares of chocolate has been dissolved. A small piece of butter and a pinch of salt is added to take away the starchy taste. Flavor with a few drops of vanilla. When thickened pour into a mold and let the pudding get ice cold. Serve with plain or whipped cream. If the mold should not stiffen enough to keep in form serve in sherbet glasses with whipped cream on top. A nice variation of this dessert is to add seeded raisins, chopped nuts and a little chopped citron before taking from fire.

Dissolve half a box of gelatine into the juice from a can of peaches, add a tablespoonful of sugar if not sweet enough. Pour some of the mixture into the bottom of the mold, add white grapes and chopped nuts. When stiffened add another layer of gelatine and fruit. Repeat until the mold is filled. This keeps fruit from rising to the top. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Dip cubes of bread in milk and fry until a delicate brown. Dust with powdered sugar and serve with a hot chocolate or maple sauce poured over it.

Cook slowly in a double boiler a half pound of rice in a quart and a pint of milk until the milk is entirely absorbed. Sweeten with three tablespoons of sugar. Pour into a circular hollow mold to get cold. Serve with bananas, stewed figs or spiced pears in the centre and eat with sugar and cream.

BROWNED BANANAS.

Skin and scrape the coarse fiber off the bananas cut into half lengthwise and then into quarters. Brush pie plate with ½ teaspoon of butter, and lay the banana in, cut side down; dust with a little salt and 2 tablespoons of brown sugar; add 1 tablespoon cold water. Bake in hot oven 20 minutes.

HICKORY NUT CAKE.

1¾ cups sugar creamed with ½ cup butter, add ¾ cup water then 2 cups flour. Add ½ of well beaten whites of 4 eggs, ½ cup of chopped nuts, remaining whites, ½ cup of nuts and 1½ teaspoons of baking powder. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

SPICE COOKIES.

One cup brown sugar, 1 cup New Orleans molasses, 1 cup shortening, ½ teaspoon ginger, ¼ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream sugar and shortening together and add the molasses and spices; sift in the flour and salt; roll out very thin; cut with cake and bake 10 minutes in moderate oven. Less spice can be used, and, if necessary, add more flour.

BROWN BREAD PUDDING.

One cup brown bread crumbs, 2 cups milk, 1 cup seeded raisins, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon salt.

The bread crumbs are made from stale brown bread. Put the crumbs into bowl; add the milk, salt and raisins, which have been washed; mix well; all must be moist, much depends on how dry the crumbs are. You may have to use a little more milk, or, if the crumbs are not so dry, less milk. Butter the bake dish, put in the mixture, cover with the brown sugar and dot with the butter. Cover and put into a moderate oven for 30 minutes; then remove cover and bake until nice and brown, about 25 minutes. Serve hot, with orange sauce, made as follows:

Orange Sauce

One orange, ½ lemon, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon caramel, 1 teaspoon salt. Put 2 cups water on to boil; mix the cornstarch with a little cold water; add the sugar, salt, orange and lemon juice and a little grated rind, and add all to the boiling water; boil 2 minutes and add the caramel. This makes it a nice, rich brown.

Scrambled Eggs With Dried Beef.

One-fourth pound dried beef, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon bacon drippings or butter. Put the drippings on in pan; add the dried beef, stirring constantly until it is warm through; break the eggs into a bowl, adding three tablespoons cold water; beat until light; then pour into pan with the dried beef, and with spatula or fork keep stirring.

WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS.

Two cups whole wheat flour, ¾ cup milk, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder into bowl; add the milk, well-beaten eggs and the butter; mix well. Heat the muffin tins and brush with a little melted lard; put 1 tablespoon batter into each tin and bake 20 minutes in hot oven.

LAMB BROTH.

When buying the shoulder of lamb, have the butcher remove all bones and crack them. On Saturday put them on the fire with 1½ quarts of cold water, a small piece of onion, a small piece of carrot and 1 teaspoon salt; boil slowly 1½ hours. Strain and set aside to cool. Sunday morning bring in and remove all beads of fat. Wash 2 tablespoons of barley and add to the stock, boil slowly 1½ hours; then add 1 tablespoon finely cut parsley and salt and pepper to taste.

LAUNDRY LORE.

Fine Irish crochet may be beautifully washed by being placed in hot suds in a narrow jar, shaken well and allowed to stand for a few hours. This insures no broken threads. Irish crochet should be pinned to the ironing board and allowed to dry.

Lace may be washed by wrapping it flat on an empty flask or bottle, covering the lace with a layer of cheesecloth and then immersing the bottle and lace in a basin of warm soapy water. It may be thus rubbed as much as necessary. After washing through several changes of water let it dry on the bottle and it will look like new.

Wash fine lingerie blouses as usual, but do not starch. When dry dip in borax water, using one tablespoonful of borax to one quart of warm water. Wring out and fold in a towel for a few hours. Then iron dry. The waists will not get mussed nearly as soon as when starched, and they are much easier to iron.

To remove old tea and coffee stains wet the stains with cold water, cover with glycerin and let stand for two or three hours, then wash in cold water and soap. Repeat if necessary.

GUM IN THE LAUNDRY.

Few amateur laundresses know the value of gumwater. For stiffening laces, silks, flannel blouses, and making them appear almost new, it is excellent, and being finer in quality than starch, it does not produce a harsh look on fine laces and silks.

The correct proportion to use is a tablespoonful of gum water, to one cupful of water. To make the gum water, put one ounce of the best broken up gum arabic into a jug; pour over it a cupful of boiling water and leave in a warm place, stirring often with a wooden stick until the gum melts. Make small quantities at a time.

Lard and olive oil are the best remedies for brass stains.

Cold raw starch will take out blood stains.

To prevent the starch from sticking to your iron, mix a small amount of soap with the starch. The easiest way is to take a soap-shaker, containing scraps of soap, and stir it in your starch. If you do not have a soap-shaker, stick a fork in a cake of soap and stir it in the starch.

I have found a delightful way to make my white shawls, golf jackets and sweaters look like new, without sending them to the cleaners. I make a basin of suds with any soap free from alkali, and wash the garment clean, changing the suds as often as necessary. I do not rub soap on the garment, nor do I rinse the soap suds out of it; simply squeeze dry, put it into a pillow slip, and hang the slip in the sun and air. Give the slip an occasional shake, and turn the other side toward the sun. It may take a day and night to dry thoroughly; but the garment will come out fluffy and soft, and it will not stretch nor shrink.

HINTS ON BLOUSE MAKING.

A common mistake made by amateur dressmakers when making a blouse is that they cut the material before the tucking is done, if the blouse is to be trimmed in that way.

Tuck the material before you cut it out.

Measure the length of the front from the shoulder seam to the waist line; allow three inches to extend below the waist and cut two widths of material that length. Measure the back from the neck to waist, allowing three inches below that point and cut one width of material that long.

For a tailored blouse turn in one side of the front the width of a hem and stitch it. One side of the other piece is laid in a box pleat two inches wide, stitched; then, measuring two inches or two and a half inches from the pleat, lay the first tuck.

This can be any width you desire, but it must be carefully measured and basted into place to avoid any chance of slipping when it is stitched.

From that tuck it is an easy matter to lay as many other tucks as you wish, and on the other side of the front the first tuck is laid the same distance from the stitching on the hem as from the box pleat. Tucks are placed at equal distances from the center of the back and stitched in place before the pattern is laid on the material.

When laying the pattern on the tucked material see that the tucks run parallel to the straight line down the center of the front.

Allow one inch for all seams, making a French seam on the shoulders and under the arms.

Take care that the sleeves are cut long enough, remembering that cotton materials shrink when washed and a too short sleeve in a tailored blouse is almost impossible to alter.

Take great care in fitting the neck-band. Put the blouse on and, after cutting a slightly curved band for the neck, pin it fast all the way around the neck of the blouse while it is on the person who is to wear the blouse. Then baste it in place before stitching. In this way you will avoid a too tight or too loose collar-band. A piece of cotton tape or a straight piece of the material one inch wide serves as a waistband, which should be long enough to lap at least two inches in front.

Always keep in mind that a blouse is not meant to fit tight, and allow plenty of room when it is cut out to make it large enough to allow for shrinking if it is made of washable material.

A clothes tree on which to hang unfinished garments is a great convenience in a sewing room.

A CLEVER SUBSTITUTE FOR A BODKIN.

If before taking out the ribbons from her lingerie, when sending them to the wash, one will sew a piece of narrow tape about a yard and a half long, onto one end of the ribbon when she pulls the opposite end of the ribbon the tape will slide into the buttonholes or casing as the ribbon comes out—and then the ribbon and tape are clipped apart. Then when the garment comes back from the wash, sew the tape and ribbon ends together just as before, so that when the tape is pulled out the ribbon slides in very easily—thus doing away with the cumbersome bodkin, while the tape, being in place during the washing and ironing keeps the buttonholes or casings in proper shape.

A FOURFOLD BAG.

If you have once owned a fourfold bag you will never again be without one. Into the separate compartments can go buttons, hooks and eyes, thread and sewing utensils and a small piece of work, and there is no wild hunting for the article needed as in a one-piece bag.

These bags may be made in any size, but a convenient size is made from a yard and three-quarters of five-inch flowered ribbon with colored satin edges. Cut the ribbon into four strips of equal length, double each strip and overcast the edges together to form a small bag. Turn in the top to the depth of an inch for the heading and run with a double line of sewing for a casing.

Use two yards of number one or baby satin ribbon for a drawstring, cutting in separate yard pieces. Rip the stitches on the outside of the casing between the line of sewing, and run the drawstring through the outside of each of the four bags, tying the ends in a fluffy bow. Start the other drawstring at the opposite end with two bags to each side and run around the bag in the inner side of the casing. Tie ends in a bow.

To keep the bags from sliding on the drawstring, tack the two on each side together, running a stitch or two in the frill just above the casing. This makes them draw easily on one string.

FOR THE TOURIST.

A "Pullman apron" is a traveling case of pliable leather that folds into small compass, and when open holds in separate compartments brush, comb, mirror, manicure scissors, nail file, wash cloth, soap box, hair pin box, tooth powder and toilet water bottles.

The bought cases are rather costly, but one is easily made at home from pliable leather or suede lined with oiled silk, with straps and pockets for all necessary toilet articles. Leave an extra piece at one end for a flap that buttons down over the double case when closed, like an envelope flap. To the upper corners sew two inch straps of leather with buckle at one end through which the other end is slipped.

NEW SILK HANDBAGS.

Changeable silk with a heavy rib is now used for handbags. All colors are employed, and one can get just the shade to match, or harmonize with one's costume. Such bags have taken the place of velvet ones to some extent and will become more popular at the turn of the season.

A COUNTRY WOMAN.

LONG PASTORATE ENDED.

Rev. J. B. Krewson Resigns at Forestville, Where He has Been in Charge Nearly 40 Years.

An earnest talk on faithfulness and untiring service in the ministry was given by Dr. L. W. Eckard, who occupied the pulpit of Forestville Presbyterian church last Sunday morning closing with a beautiful tribute to such attributes along with straightforward manhood on the part of the pastor of that church, Rev. Jacob B. Krewson. Immediately after the sermon a congregational meeting was held with Dr. Eckard as moderator. After prayer, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Wiley, of Doylestown, was elected secretary of the meeting.

Dr. Eckard then read the resignation of Mr. Krewson as pastor and made a few remarks thereon. After discussion, in which a most kindly feeling toward the pastor of nearly forty-four years was manifest, and a statement by a member of his family that on account of long service Mr. Krewson desires the dissolution, a vote was taken and carried to accept the resignation.

A unanimous vote was taken to make Mr. Krewson pastor emeritus.

This was Mr. Krewson's first and only charge. He began his labors as supply in the Forestville church May 1868, after the church had been closed for two years, and was ordained and installed to the pastorate May, 1869. During this long period of service he and his family have endeared themselves to the many to whom it has been their privilege to minister, and his resignation will be keenly felt.

THE SPIRIT OF WINTER.

The Spirit of Winter is with us, making its presence known in many different ways—sometimes by cheery sunshine and glistening snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse, for rheumatism twists harder, twinges sharper, catarrh becomes more annoying, and the many symptoms of scrofula are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these ailments. The medicine that cures them—Hood's Sarsaparilla—is easily obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

CHURCHVILLE W. C. T. U.

Churchville W. C. T. U. convened at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Saurman, Southampton, on Saturday afternoon, January sixth, 1912, with Mrs. Caroline Craven presiding and Miss Joanna Hobensack, secretary.

"Live to be a Blessing" was sung, scripture selections read by the president and prayer voiced by Mrs. Emily Yerkes.

New Year greetings in poem and prose were given by Miss Mary Saurman and Miss Hobensack.

It was decided to have a public or parlor meeting at Churchville on January twentieth at 7.30 p. m. to be addressed by Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, of Centralia, Pa. This lady has given four years to work in California and Oregon, and is remembered by some for her previous work in this, her home state.

Taking up the topic for the day, Emily Hart told of the 864 dry townships and 310 dry towns in Pennsylvania, which were made so by a vote of the people. Four counties are dry: Green, Mifflin, Bedford and Lawrence. That in some places the law is enforced is shown when "The Venango Club," Oil City's most exclusive social association, is fined $500 and costs, which nets $900 for selling to or supplying some of its members with liquor at their homes.

Eight states have State wide prohibition, Maine, Kansas, North Dakota, Georgia, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Tennessee and Mississippi. Extracts read from articles written by the Governors of these states told of the improved conditions since these laws had been passed.

The movement over the South is sweeping rapidly onward, the sentiment in favor of prohibition, which is only sane living, is growing stronger. Other states which are working for, and expect soon to have this law, are: West Virginia, Virginia, Louisianna, and Florida. Texas has a large sentiment in favor of dry laws, and but for fraud at the last election this state would now be on the dry list.

Mrs. Jane Knight read of the retention of the prohibitory law in Maine, and of the vast sums of money poured into the State by the liquor men to endeavor to defeat the measure.

The flower mission superintendent told of the barrel of fresh and canned fruits and vegetables sent by the Friends' Neighborhood Guild from Davisville. Churchville had contributed a barrel to Christ's Home in Warminster. The Sunday school at Churchville having sent also its old library of books to this home, the same having been gratefully acknowledged.

Mrs. Yerkes gave items showed the rapid progress the is making in the movement will soon enfranchise women.

The February meeting will oc the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes on Saturday the third: "Scientific Temperance Instru Mrs. Yerkes superintendent. tions led by Miss Hobensack. tions were referred to Miss Saurman and Mrs. Emma Leed contribution to the work was ed from Mrs. Craig. Literature distributed.

HUGH B. EASTBURN, OF Doylestown, a leader of the Bucks County Bar, has announced his candidacy for Congress in this District. Mr. Eastburn has a high reputation as a man of integrity and worth, and a wide acquaintance among the public men of the county. In the latter respect he has the advantage over his young townsman, Oscar Bean, who has been put forward by the Grundy machine as its candidate for a seat in the House of Representatives at Washington.

The Bucks county machine has demanded the right to name the candidate, and Boss Johnson of Montgomery, has acquiesced.

But are the people of Bucks and Montgomery counties willing, without consulting their wishes, to see this great prize handed to a man whose principal claim to preferment, is the fact that he is a faithful machine henchman?

We believe not.

There are already indications of unrest in various parts of the district.

The candidacy of Mr. Eastburn shows that Bucks can only be held in line for Bean by vigorous and distasteful machine methods, including the tapping of the much flaunted Grundy barrel.

The announcement that Frank P. Croft, business man, of Lower Merion, is a candidate for the place, the numerously signed petitions asking former Congressman Wanger to allow the use of his name, and the suggestion of various local favorites, shows that Montgomery county will kick, and kick vigorously at Boss Johnson's plan to tie its hands and place it bound and gagged in the machine corral.

The plain people of both counties are greatly interested in naming a high-class man to represent them in Congress. They want a man of reputation and influence.

The bosses by using money and exerting all their power at the April primary may succeed in placing Bean upon the ticket. But what of the election in November? Can he carry the district after a bitter factional fight has split the Republican party asunder?

Time will tell.

THE FIRST ANNUAL MEETING of the Hatboro Business Men's Association was a notable affair.

The association, representing as it does all lines of professional and business activity in the borough, is mainly strong because it indicates a determination to pull together instead of apart for the good of the community. In union there is strength. There never was any question of the fact that all of our business people desire to forward the best interests of their home town and section, but individual effort accomplishes little in this direction. How different the result must be when all shoulders are united to push forward the wheels of progress.

Keep up the good work, fellow citizens, the campaign has only begun. Above all stick together and present a united front to the outside world.

Good results come from such effort as this!

COUNTY CONTROLLER JOHN N. Jacobs, of Lansdale, has found a way to get rid of the majority of the tramps, who have made the Montgomery County Home their headquarters during the winter months. He has cut out their supply of tobacco and every able bodied man who applies for lodging or meals is required to work about the farm or cut wood. The tramps are disappearing.

ASSURANCE THAT HE IS HOPEful that a subway will be constructed in Broad street as far as Olney avenue, Philadelphia, before the expiration of his term of office was given by Mayor Blankenburg to a large delegation of residents of the northern section of that city when they visited him at the City Hall last Monday. They represented a number of business and improvement associations which had named them as a joint committee with instructions to visit the Mayor for the purpose of presenting their wishes for the speedy construction of the subway.

Mr. Blankenburg said he had already discussed the subject with railroad men and tentative plans had been prepared.

Bethayres--Huntingdon Valley

HORSE COMPANY MEETING.

The Moreland Protective Association (Horse Co.) met in Odd Fellows hall on Monday afternoon and elected all the old officers as follows; President Samuel J. Yerkes; vice president, Watson Bavington; secretary, Israel Hallowell; treasurer, J. H. Danenhower; committee of accounts, H. Benton Leedom, John Shelmire and Jesse Holt. On account of the great use of the telephone and telegraph it was decided to do away with the old way of riding committees and have a committee of four to act in conjunction with the officers as a telephone and telegraph committee. The four appointed are Oliver Wilson, Isaac Tomlinson, Curwin Shelmire and Charles E. Price.

Many horses fell upon the icy roads on Tuesday last.

The boys and girls have been enjoying the skating.

John L. Hallowell is able to be out again after being confined in the house for several weeks with sickness.

Officers of the Bethayres M. E. Sunday school were elected last Sunday. George A. Gray was elected superintendent.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Walter B. Freas, of this place, and Miss Sarah S. Abbott, of Bustleton.

Elmer Danenberger is getting along very nicely at the Jewish hospital, after undergoing an operation for appendicitis.

I. C. Walker at Valley Falls station, is building additions to his chicken house and stable. H. Benton Leedom is furnishing the material.

A marriage license was on Tuesday granted at Norristown to G. Clarence Heaton, Huntingdon Valley, and Esther T. Duffield, Narcissa.

Harry Young has had the interior of his bar room nicely repapered and repainted. Since Mr. Young has taken possession of the Spread Eagle hotel, many improvements have been made.

The second of the series of sermons on "Heroes of the Bible," by Rev. H. H. Prouse, pastor, will be preached Sunday evening, January 13. The subject being "Absalom, who Lost the Prize." Services begin at 7.30.

The fire company met in Clayton's hall on Thursday evening and transacted routine business. George Heath will give an entertainment in Odd Fellows' hall on Saturday, January 27th, for the benefit of the company.

The pulpit of the First Baptist church of Huntingdon Valley will be occupied Sunday, January 14, by the Rev. Frank H. Bundick, of Philadelphia. Mr. Bundick has recently relinquished the pastorate of the Glenside Baptist church. The public is invited to be present at both services.

Falling on the ice as she was walking, Mrs. Henry A. James, Doylestown, fractured the cap of her left knee. Mrs. James had a similar accident once before, breaking the cap of her right knee.

A. A. Delp, of Lansdale, is one of the oldest auctioneers in the county. He is in his seventieth year, and has been in the business forty-one years. During that time he has cried 5382 sales and has kept a record of each one.

While Otis G. Willman, of Edison, was waiting in a doctor's office at Doylestown his friends were searching about a field, thinking he had fallen into a sink hole, as he had last been seen on the banks of a stream.

"ADVERTISING IN THE SPIRIT PAYS"

The PUBLIC SPIRIT of Hatboro, Pa., is the best paper in which to advertise a public sale of personal property. Why the SPIRIT? Because of its advantageous location and widespread circulation among the well-to-do class who have money with which to buy. It is not only read by all the people in a wide scope of country with Hatboro as a centre, but it goes to dealers in Philadelphia, Germantown and elsewhere. If you want to reach people who attend sales, advertise in the SPIRIT.

We will make an advance announcement of the date, place and character of coming sales under this head free, if we are given both the poster printing and the sale is advertised in our paper. In all other cases the charges for advance announcements will be 50 cents. Secure your date early so as not to conflict with other sales in the same locality.

The SPIRIT job department turns out attractive posters, on good paper, with catchy display and cuts, at moderate prices, for prompt work.

BUSINESS MEN BANQUET

Officers Elected—Auditors Report—Fine Dinner Served at Moore's Inn—Those Present.

The first annual election and banquet of the Hatboro Business Men's Association was held on Thursday night and was voted by all a great success.

At 7.15 President Reading called the business meeting to order in the borough building. The first business was the reading of the minutes by secretary Warren M. Cornell, after which a report was heard from Howard Garner, chairman of the committee who waited upon Borough Council, in reference to the borough purchasing the Hatboro Water Company. He reported that the committee had discharged its duty and that Borough Council is considering the suggestion of purchasing the water company and that the borough's attorney had the matter before him.

The auditors, C. J. Stover and J. M. Walmsley, submitted their report as having gone over the treasurer's accounts and reported a balance of $203.40. The receipts and expenditures for the year up until January 10th were as follows:

From membership fees	$ 94 00
" dues	214 75
	$308 75

EXPENSES

Printing and advertising	$90 40
Janitor's fees	10 00
Stationery and postage	4 95
	$105 35

There were enrolled during the year 100 members, of whom 57 paid membership fees, 58 whose dues were paid to date on January 9th; 3 members resigned and one removed from the borough; leaving 32 delinquents.

E. N. Luddy was elected as a new member. At this point a telegram from Charles Deckleman, from Hartford, Connecticut, was read, regretting his inability to be present. After passing bills amounting to $5.95, the meeting went into the election of officers for the ensuing year. The president appointed Harry J. Morris and F. H. McVaugh as tellers to conduct the election, which resulted in the choice of the following ticket: President, Dr. Thomas Reading; vice president, Penrose Robinson; secretary, Warren M. Cornell; treasurer, William F. Wilson. Directors, W. W. Wilgus, C. J. Stover, Harry Wilson, J. M. Walmsley and George C. Yerkes. Adjourned at eight o'clock.

The body of men then proceeded to Moore's Inn for their banquet. Everything was in readiness by Proprietor Moore and the committee headed by Harry Wilson, who had charge of the banquet.

A most excellent dinner was served of oysters, soup, turkey, vegetables, salad and ice cream, ending with coffee and cigars. President Reading acted as toastmaster and handled the meeting in his usual genial way. About 50 covers were laid and the banquet hall was handsomely decorated and the two long tables looked beautiful. An orchestra furnished tuneful music.

The toast-master called on the following persons for remarks and a number of them gave fine addresses: Vice President Robinson; Prof. H. C. Borden, W. W. Wilgus, O. E. C. Robinson, Dr. J. B. Carrell, Paul Jones, Walter Rothwell, C. J. Stover, Alfred C. Young and Fretz Larzelere.

HATBORO HOME HAPPENINGS

S. J. GARNER ESTATE TO FAMILY.

Divided Among Wife and Five Children—Unofficial Estimate of Value Over $100,000.

The will of Samuel J. Garner, late of Hatboro, has been recorded at Norristown. His widow, Fannie Garner, is bequeathed $1000 in cash and the residue of the estate is to be divided into two equal shares, one share going to his widow and the other share to be divided equally among his five children, namely: Howard, Carl, Ralph, Marion and Florence.

The $1000 bequeathed to his widow is to be paid as soon as possible after Mr. Garner's death and is to be "in lieu of the widow's $300."

His sons, Howard, Carl and Ralph, are to act as executors without compensation, which Mr. Garner says they will "willingly do out of regard and affection for thes other heirs." Either two of the three executors are sufficient to transact business or sign papers, according to the will.

The will was written by Mr. Garner and executed on March 21, 1911. It is not witnessed, which fact does not affect its validity since there are no public bequests in the will.

Unofficial estimates of the value of the estate place it at over $100,000.

Miss Martha Flack is spending several weeks at her home to recuperate after a severe cold.

In one of the fastest and cleanest games seen here this winter the Doylestown High School basket ball team nosed out a victory over the Hatboro High School basket ball team Friday night in Loller Hall. Score 29 to 28.

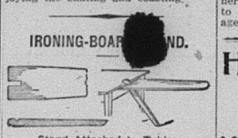
CHILD CHOKED TO DEATH.

The eighteen months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reed, who reside in one of Joseph Brown's houses, on New street, was on Tuesday seized with a coughing spell and Dr. J. B. Carrell was summoned and found that it was necessary for an operation. The baby was hastily taken in an automobile to the Jewish hospital, where it was so weak that it could not survive the operation, but died. The child had gotten a piece of apple in its throat which choked it to death. The family have the sympathy of the neighbors and friends. The child was one of seven.

The boys and girls have been enjoying the skating and coasting.

IRONING-BOARD AND.



Stand Attached to Table.

An ordinary ironing board is cut square on the large end and a slot cut one and one-half inches wide and four inches long to admit the angle support. The support is placed against the table and the board is pressed down against the outer notch which jams against the table, thus holding the board rigid and in such a position as to give free access for ironing dresses, etc.—T. L. Gray, San Francisco, Cal., in Popular Mechanics.

Turkey Rack Soup.

Break up the carcass of the turkey, put with it all the bits of gristle, skin and trimmings, pour over two quarts of cold water, set over the fire and simmer for three hours, closely covered. Put aside until cold, skim and strain and chop fine all the meat which may have stuck to the bones. Add to this [illegible] the stuffing, rubbed through a colander, a stalk of celery, a sliced onion and a sprig of parsley. Cook together for an hour, add to it a cupful of hot milk, which has been thickened with a tablespoonful of butter, boil up once and serve.

In the turkey rack soup of my youth there were always delicious tidbits of turkey floating, which made it far more "filling" than the ordinary soup served at the first course of a dinner.

Roast Breast of Veal, Filling.

Have a pocket cut in the veal; wipe the meat off with a damp cloth, fill in the pocket, sew up; place in roasting pan, dust with salt, pepper, flour and one tablespoonful of drippings. Roast in a hot oven 20 minutes and baste with one cup of cold water. Add one-fourth peck of potatoes, which have been washed and pared; reduce the heat of the oven, making it moderate, and roast one hour.

Remove the meat and potatoes, add one tablespoonful of flour, mixed with a little cold water, and one cup of cold water or stock, one tablespoonful of caramel, one teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of white pepper; boil two minutes and strain.

Delicious Orange Pudding.

Pare and slice five oranges, lay in deep dish and sprinkle with one-half cup granulated sugar, let stand two hours. Make a custard of one pint of sweet milk, yolks of two eggs, two tablespoons of cornstarch. Stir custard to make it smooth. When cool pour over the oranges. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, add two tablespoons of powdered or granulated sugar, place over custard and brown quickly in oven. Serve hot or cold. It is delicious either way.

Linen Bleach.

White frocks and blouses or underclothing that have got "a bad color" should be first soaked in cold water to which a little ammonia has been added and then given a lemon bleach, that is, a large lemon should be cut into slices, rind and all, and boiled up in the boiling pan or small copper. When at full boiling point pop in the linens and muslins, and boil for twenty minutes.

Eggs Cooked in Maple Sirup.

This is a French recipe. Pour sirup into the frying pan and heat it hot; then drop an egg into it and cook it exactly the same as you would if dropping it in water. A dish of eggs cooked in this way for dessert not only tastes good but looks tempting.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes.

Slice cold sweet potatoes left from yesterday, arrange them in a baking dish, buttering each layer well and sprinkling with light brown sugar. Pour in about half a cup of hot water, cover and bake an hour, uncover and crisp on top.

Molasses Cake.

One cup of sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of sour milk, four cups of flour, one-half cup of shortening, one teaspoon of soda. Ginger to taste.

In the absence of Mrs. Mary D. Yardley, of Yardley, her house was entered and ransacked from garret to the cellar, the thieves carrying off a quantity of preserves and a few other things of minor value.

BUCKS HISTORIANS.

The annual meeting of the Bucks County Historical Society will be held in the society's building, Doylestown, Tuesday, January 16th. There will be two sessions, the morning being given over to the transaction of business and the election of officers. At the afternoon session there will be several papers presented, "Navigation on the Upper Delaware," by J. A. Anderson, of Lambertville, N. J.; "The Seckel Pear Tree," by A. M. Hance, of Philadelphia, and "The Last of the Lenni Lenape Indians on the Delaware and Their Subsequent Migrations," by William J. Heller, of Easton.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Mrs. Esther Landis, wife of the late Abram Landis, was found dead in bed at her home near Plumsteadville, about 6 o'clock Monday morning. Mrs. Landis was apparently in good health when she retired Sunday night, and her sudden demise was a great shock to her family. She was 62 years of age.

ROBBED A SECOND TIME.

Home of Wilson Potter, in Germantown, Looted of $3000 in Silverware.

For the second time within a month the home of Wilson Potter, at Montgomery and Stenton avenues, Chestnut Hill, was broken into and robbed on Friday night of silverware valued at $3000. On December 9 articles valued at $2500 were stolen. On both occasions the burglars confined their work to the lower floor of the house.

UNION HORSE COMPANY.

Thirteen new members were added to the Union Horse Company, Saturday, at John Goss Hotel, at Furlong, and fifty-seven members enjoyed the appetizing turkey and oyster dinner. All of the old officers and directors were re-elected. The officers are: President, Thomas Haddon; secretary, Frank Heaton; treasurer, Arthur Schuyler.

SHALLCROSS—FETTER.

Thomas Shallcross, one of the most widely known men in Philadelphia, and particularly in the northeast, was quietly married last Wednesday.

His bride is Mrs. Salome R. Fetter, the widow of George W. Fetter, who for many years was principal of the Girls' High School.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, 3722 Spring Garden street, and was attended only by the members of both families. Mr. Shallcross and his wife left almost immediately on a wedding trip. The destination is being kept a secret, as is also the day of their return.

Mr. Shallcross has been a member of the Board of Education since 1890, and is a member of the Committee on High Schools. He has been considered the guiding genius of the Northeast Manual Training High School since its founding, and was one of the first to engage in the work which resulted in the erection of the new building at 8th street and Lehigh avenue.

The present Mrs. Shallcross was Miss Salome Rhine, Oak Lane, before her first marriage to Professor George W. Fetter in June, 1894. Several months before his marriage Professor Fetter resigned as principal of the Girls' High School, after having held that position for thirty years.

GRANGE MEETING.

Pennypack Grange, No. 8, P. of N., met for the first regular meeting of 1912 in the Club hall at Willow Grove, on Saturday, January 6th. The heating plant being temporarily out of joint, the hall was not in fit condition to remain in on such a frigid night. Through the courtesy of Dr. Franklin Watson, the Grange accepted his kind invitation to repair to his comfortable residence to hold the meeting. After the regular business was transacted and new business being called for the installation of officers was taken up, when Worthy District Deputy Curtis E. Holloway installed the following as officers for the year: Master, Hubert A. Walton; overseer, Dr. Franklin Watson; steward, Clarence Barnes; chaplain, Laurence J. Pearson; treasurer, Laura E. Walton; secretary, Seth T. Walton; pomona, Edna M. Walton; flora, Marguerite Walton. Past Master Seth T. Walton then installed the deputy Curtis E. Holloway as lecturer. Those elected to the offices of assistant steward, stewardess, gate keeper and ceres not being present their installation was necessarily deferred to a future meeting.

"Suggestions for the good of the Order" with music and singing filled out a pleasant, though owing to the cold, small meeting.

There are several empty houses in the village.

Mrs. Ella M. George, of Beaver Falls, president of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. will be the speaker at the Sunday evening service in the Willow Grove Methodist church. Mrs. George is a most interesting and forceful speaker, and it is hoped a large audience will have the privilege of hearing her. All members of the local Union are urged to attend this service, which begins at eight o'clock.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

RULES FOR MAKING GOOD TEA

Follow These and a Delightful and Exhilarating Beverage Will Be the Result.

A good cup of tea is something too infrequently met with when one considers the prevalent use of tea as a beverage. The fault often lies less in the tea than in the manner of its making. Here are some of the rules which, if observed, will prove the quality of the product:

Don't use water that has been boiled a long time in brewing tea.

Don't use water which has not yet reached the boiling point.

Don't allow the tea to brew for more than five minutes.

Don't make tea in a cold teapot. Rinse with hot water before placing the leaves in the pot.

Don't pour a second water over the leaves when the first brew is exhausted.

Don't allow tea to grow damp in the caddy.

Don't buy too cheap a quality of tea and expect good results.

Here is the Japanese method of making a delightfully refreshing beverage: Heat the earthen or china teapot thoroughly with boiling water, then empty out the water and put in the tea, pour in freshly boiled water, let it stand for five minutes and serve.

A teapot never touches the stove. A tiny tea cozy of Japanese paper is put over the teapot the moment the water is poured on and a delicious cup of tea is thus secured without having extracted the injurious ingredient—the tannin.

Always use a porcelain or earthware teapot. Tea experts tell us that the fragrant leaf should never touch metal.

ALL MADE FROM CORN FLOUR

Expert Has Demonstrated the Possibilities of This Material, So Much Cheaper Than Wheat.

Mrs. S. T. Rorer, well known as a cooking authority, gave a series of practical illustrations with corn recipes some time ago. To persons who think only of yellow and white mush, Johnny cake, "pone" and Indian pudding as possible from corn flour, it may be a revelation to read merely a list of the dishes which Mrs. Rorer prepared. She made corn bread with yeast, southern rice bread, Louisiana corn bread, Adirondack corn bread, Victoria corn gems, mush gems, hoe cakes, corn dodgers, waffles, plain boiled hominy, blanc mange, cream of cornstarch pudding, strawberry starch with meringue, Heaton pudding, strawberry float, vanilla souffles, hominy flourendine, cornstarch cakes, plunkets, pilau, chicken and hominy, fried cream, mush croquettes, cream pie and Boston brown bread.

"And in all these recipes," declared Mrs. Rorer, "I have not used one ounce of wheat flour. Corn flour has been used every time."

POT-COVER CLOSET.

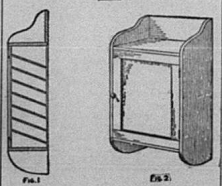

Fig. 1 Fig. 2

Closet for Holding Pot Covers.

The sides of the cover closet are cut as shown in Fig. 1 and shelves are nailed between them at a slight angle. No dimensions are given, as the space and the sizes of the covers are not always the same. The back is covered with thin boards placed vertically. The front can be covered with a curtain or a paneled door as shown.—Gilbert A. Wehr, Baltimore, Md., in Popular Mechanics.

Cheese and Coffee.

Place on the table a plate of crisp cheese wafers. With them serve a tart jelly or thin preserve, such as gooseberry or crab apple. The preserve known as bar le duc is suitable for this purpose, and the taste of the cheese and wafers is greatly improved in combination with the fruit.

Strong, fragrant coffee is served with this simple desert.

Aniseed Cookies.

Rub to a cream one-half cupful of butter and a cupful of powdered sugar and when light stir in the well beaten yolks of three eggs. Add the stiffened whites alternately with a pound of flour, or enough to make a stiff dough, and stir into the flour a teaspoonful of aniseed. Roll thin and cut into rounds and bake.

Beefsteak Dumplings.

Line a deep dish with pie crust, cut up two pounds of stewing beef in small pieces, add salt, pepper, chopped onion, water, one-half teaspoonful poultry dressing and a little butter. Put top crust on and steam for three hours.

Shoe Scratches.

Scratches on your shoes should be rubbed gently with a little vaseline before polishing them. The marks will scarcely be noticeable then, while it puts the leather into better condition.

Mrs. John Batty, of Loney street, entertained the Monday Club last Monday afternoon.

The severely cold weather and the dangerous walking are affecting church attendance.

Assistant foreman, James B. Gilbert, of chemical engine, No. 5, will very soon take an examination for promotion to foreman. His many friends wish him all success.

The Ushers Association of the Methodist church are planning for their anniversary banquet. It will be held February 9th in the restaurant of the Y. M. C. A., Broad and Arch streets.

Alexander Ewer, formerly of Hoopeston, Pa., has purchased the grocery business of James H. McClellan. He is an active, energetic business man and if hard work brings success, he will be successful.

Nicholas Justice died last Wednesday morning at his home, 7951 Fillmore street. He had been in poor health for the last three years. A widow and four adult children survive. Funeral services will be held Saturday, January 13, at 2 p. m. at his late residence. Interment will be private.

An improvement association was organized Friday evening, January 5, at a meeting held in Odd Fellows hall, membership is restricted to the residents of the 9th Division of the 35th ward. Admission fee is $1, quarterly dues are 25 cents. W. Austen Yerkes was elected president. The association will seek for better transportation, better fire and police protection and other things necessary for the growth and development of the community.

McKINLEY

Mrs. James Sangster has been on the sick list, but is improving.

Julius Lang is still nursing a sprained ankle received some time ago. He had an X-ray diagnosis on it, and is satisfied that it is not as serious as was first thought.

The annual reports and installation of officers will prove very interesting at the next meeting of the fire company. It is hoped that renewed interest in the work will induce a full attendance.

The nomination for officers of McKinley fire company, No. 1, took place Tuesday evening. The following were named: For president, A. Hallowell; vice president, J. Lynam; secretary, G. Cridland; financial secretary, E. J. Richardson; treasurer, P. Whalen; directors, J. Zane, Sr., P. Bradey; chief, D. Conard; A. Bockius; first assistant, J. Zane, Jr.; second assistant, E. Gamwell; delegates, E. J. Richdson, E. Lynam, J. Gormley, J. Zane, Jr.

It's going to extremes to pull the wool over a man's eyes, and then pull his leg, too.

ARRESTED AT PRISON DOOR.

Released Prisoner Accused of Swindling Employes of Countess Eulalia and of the Wideners.

Harry Morris was released from the Media jail last Monday after serving a term of one year for swindling suburbanites on a magazine proposition which was supposed to convey as a gift a costly atlas.

As Morris stepped from the prison doors he was arrested by Stull, a detective. Then he was taken to Philadelphia and in court pleaded guilty to an embezzlement charge preferred by a magazine. Sentence was suspended, primarily because Montgomery county wanted him.

Morris was turned over to Sergeant Ganley, of the Ogontz station. Monday night he was arraigned before Squire Comly, at Ogontz, charged with swindling at least twelve residents of Ashbourne, Elkins Park and Ogontz, out of sums ranging from $1.50 to $6.80 on the same plan.

Morris had worked effectively, it is declared, among the attaches of "San Ildro," the country estate of the Countess Santa Eulalia, "Lynnewood Hall," the country estate of the Wideners, and among the employes of the Elkins, and other families of the northern suburbs.

Magistrate Comly held the man under $500 bail. Morris, who is about forty-five years of age and claims Sandusky, Ohio, as his home, will be taken to Norristown to await trial.

OTIS H. BALLOU KILLED

Hit by Automobile in Seattle, Washington.

Relatives have received word that Otis H. Ballou, an attorney, formerly of Philadelphia, was killed by an automobile while boarding a trolley car at Seattle, Wash., December 26.

Mr. Ballou went from Philadelphia to Omaha and then to Seattle. He was about 65 years old, and is survived by his widow, a son and daughter. Mrs. Ballou was formerly Miss Isabelle Glasgow, a teacher in Girard College, and a sister of William Glasgow, of Oak Lane. The Glasgows were for many years Warminster residents.

CAME HOME TO DIE.

Cyrus Thompson died at the home of his brother, Frank, in Philadelphia, early on Tuesday morning. Mr. Thompson went west over 25 years ago, leaving here a wife and two children, Harry and Esther M. Esther died when nine months old. Harry married Gertrude Slack, of Philadelphia. They have two children, Edith and Harry. They live in Mt. Airy. In 1906 Mrs. Thompson was granted a divorce in order to give a clear title on her property she owned in Somerton. Mrs. Thompson was the daughter of the late Lewis H. and Elizabeth B. Ross, of Bucks county, and now resides in Philadelphia.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

POULTRY

MAKING MONEY WITH DUCKS

Properly Fed on Sweet, Clean Grain and Pure Water Fowl Produces Egg That Is Delicious.

Nearly all good eaters in England and on the continent relish duck eggs, even more than the hens' eggs.

Properly fed on sweet, clean grain, green stuff with pure water the duck produces eggs that are delicious.

The Indian Runner duck lays better eggs than the Pekin, although the latter is in greater favor in the United States, doubtless because of its pure white color.

Pastry cooks in hotels and restaurants prefer duck eggs and some persons who have learned how palatable they are buy them, but there is a decided prejudice against duck eggs in the general market.

Good Egg Producers.

Duck raisers can remove this prejudice by judicious advertising in the local papers, setting forth the advantages of duck eggs and advising all to their palatability.

The Indian Runner is almost as large as the Pekin at ten weeks, although the latter is more heavily feathered and this gives it a larger appearance.

Runner ducks do not need water to swim in but should always be provided with clean water for drinking and if this can be running water so much the better.

PROPER HOUSE FOR POULTRY

Mistaken Idea to Think That Hens Do Not Lay in Winter Because Their Coop Is Not Warm.

Very often I hear persons say, "Our hens don't lay in the winter because our hen house is not warm enough." I have kept hens, lots of them, for 25 years, and kept them for eggs and I got the eggs, too, and I never kept them in a warm house either. I will tell you what I depend upon to keep the hens warm in winter and that is good heavy feathering (I have the Rhode Island Reds and there is no breed that has a better coat of feathers for winter than this one), says a writer in the Successful Farmer. Rich blood and active exercise keep it in circulation. Yes, I used to try to make my hen houses warm, but only succeeded in introducing a condition which, if followed up, looked to me as though they would be worse than the cold.

I don't wish to have it understood that my houses are open with cracks and knot holes, for they are not; every part is made tight except at the windows where the muslin curtain is in. The question is not how warm you can make your poultry house, but how dry you can make it. There is no danger in having it too dry. When you have built a hen house with two thicknesses of boards and paper between, tight doors and windows and a good roof and lots of glass on the south side, you have what some call a warm house, but you have what I call a damp one, that is if you have very many hens in it, and it will be damp just as long as you keep it tight and close and allow no ventilation. A hen will stand a lot of cold and long, too, if she is in a dry house.

EXCELLENT FEED FOR HENS

Turnips Nailed to Board With Cut Side Up Affords Fowls Green Truck Needed In Winter.

Turnips make an excellent green food for laying hens during winter. The best way to feed them is to cut them in halves, nail them on a board with cut side up, and place where the hens can have free access. Turnips take the place of grass and other greens which cannot be had in winter. The object in cutting and feeding in this way is to prevent the hens from scratching them through dirt and litter. Potatoes and apples can also be fed in the same manner.

Honesty is the best policy, but if you don't keep your premiums paid up it will lapse.

HORSHAM CLUB MEETING

New Officers Chosen and Most Every Topic Except Farming Discussed.

The January meeting of the Horsham Farmers' Club was held on the 6th inst. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stapler, of Abington. H. Warner Hallowell presided and Mrs. S. H. Jarrett was secretary.

On February 3 in Loller hall, Hatboro, the club will celebrate its 25th anniversary with appropriate exercises held in the afternoon and evening.

Three delegates are expected from each of the following clubs: Solebury Wrightstown, Northampton and Warrington, each club to furnish a paper. The delegates and writers of the papers to be entertained by Horsham Club at Moore's Hotel for supper.

Anna H. Penrose, of the domestic economy committee, said a good way to keep the yellows of eggs soft when not ready to use them immediately is to drop them into a bowl of cold water.

If a pan is buttered around the edge in which candy is boiled the mixture will not boil over. The receipt for Everton taffy is 2 pounds of brown sugar, ½ pound butter and 1 cup of vinegar. If too much salt is put into soup a dash of brown sugar or a raw potato put into it will help.

Howard Comly mentioned current topics.

Newton E. Wood said the farmers of Freehold, New Jersey, had formed a farmers' exchange which he considered would be an advantage in any farming community as it does away with the middleman. The farmers' produce is sold before being delivered to a central place and better prices are realized.

Isaac Michener had attended the peace and arbitration meeting held at the Academy of Music, December 13th and was much interested in the discussion concerning the treaties with Great Britain and France. Several ladies, who had attended the current event class at the Old York Road Country Club, January 3, entered into the discussion.

Elizabeth H. Comly mentioned the great advantage of the postal package abroad and how farmers were able to send produce by mail at the rate of eight cents for 11 pounds.

Charles Kinsey, the editor, read a well filled number of the Club Gazette.

Elizabeth Ely discussed the question: "How can we acquire the power of bringing out the best in human nature and keeping the worst traits in the background?"

Susan Williams suggested numerous useful Christmas gifts.

"What are the prospects for 1912 for the farmers," referred to William Penrose. He thought the prospects were excellent at present, but hoped the tariff would not be changed. Mrs. Walter Buckman gave an interesting talk on the persimmon which is a native of southern United States. The fruit is good when fully ripe and touched by frost.

H. Warner Hallowell and Isaac Parry discussed the care of earth roads. The latter said that dirt from the gutters should be hauled away instead of being put in the middle of the road. The roads should be mended in the spring when they are dried.

J. L. Atkinson advised bonding the township and macadamizing.

New officers were chosen as follows: President, W. M. Penrose; vice president, Alfred Williams; secretary, Susan H. Jarrett; editor, Anna H. Penrose; executive committee, Newton E. Wood, Elizabeth Wood, Isaac Parry, Kate Buckman.

The president appointed David W. Sill and Isaac Parry on the crop committee and also to audit the treasurer's accounts. Elizabeth W. Ely and Harriet Atkinson were appointed on the domestic economy committee. Assistants to the editor, Mrs. P. P. Gheen and Isaac Michener.

TOPICS DISCUSSED BY WARRINGTON FARMERS

Alfalfa Growing—To Improve Corn Ground.

The February meeting of the Warrington Farmers' Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson B. McKinstry. Among those who participated in the program were Rev. John Lentz, Mrs. Frank Shutt, Mrs. H. M. McKinstry, Mrs. A. Swartley, Miss Edith Stover, Mrs. Sarah Thompson, Joseph Carrell, Russell and Paul Cadwallader.

In a discussion early corn planting was advocated.

Joseph Carrell said that after ground was ploughed and thoroughly cultivated muriate of potash and phosphoric acid sowed broad cast would greatly improve corn ground.

GROWING OF ALFALFA.

"Is the growing of alfalfa practicable in this section of the country and give some idea of its value." Herbert McKinstry, to whom the question was referred, said that alfalfa grows well on various kinds of land providing the subsoil is open and porous. The most favorable land is a rich, somewhat sandy loam, warm and friable, with a deep and loose or gravelly subsoil well supplied with lime. A dense clay or hardpan subsoil is most unfavorable. Although rich land is preferable alfalfa does well on poor, well drained, gravelly soils if well provided with the mineral elements, as phosphoric acid, potash and lime. While the plant requires much water, it will not flourish where the water level is too near the surface, say nearer than 18 inches, or when the ground is saturated, or where, when flooded the water stands more than two or three days.

Joseph Carrell, who was a visitor at State College during the week, said the speakers recommended the following hints for alfalfa: Well drained soil, plenty of lime, inoculation and plenty of fertilizer. They recommended a top-dressing of manure and a preceding crop well cultivated. In this section on account of rain feed green, as better results will be achieved.

GARDEN and FARM NOTES

This is a good time to organize an agricultural club in your neighborhood.

Are you roasting your shins by the fire, or turning these wintry days into profit?

Keep all the tools that are used around the barn in convenient and safe places.

In the large producing sections cabbages are stored in specially prepared frost-proof houses.

How much does it cost you to leave that machinery standing out in the weather? Shedding is cheap!

Many a new and valuable implement is left out all winter more through carelessness than anything else.

The business that grows rapidly may well be watched closely. Concerns of slow growth are usually more stable.

Farm success comes to the man who runs his little bit of land on the same plan that the engineer does his train—right on the dot.

It is as idle and useless to expect good crops from inferior seed as it would be to endeavor to breed thoroughbred cattle from scrub stock.

Fence the hay and straw stacks so that the cattle cannot get at them. If permitted to eat around the bottom they will waste more than they eat.

If possible have a separate building in which to do the butchering work, and thus save the women folks as much as you can. It is man's work.

Take the frost out of your grindstone before you grind the ax, but do it gradually, and not by using hot water. That would injure the quality of the stone.

The Springhouse and Hilltown Turnpike Road Company has elected these officers for the coming year: President, Benjamin F. Penrose; secretary, J. P. Hale Jenkins; treasurer, Oliver G.
